How to Get to University Street

Before beginning this expedition, buckle your seat belt and keep your eyes peeled for... your 18th birthday (listen closely, you may hear freshmen singing in the distance), unforgettable parties, draft registration, Mezzanine access, and college applications...

From Freshman Initiation River, get back on Senior Highway...

Make a stop at the Freshman-Senior Picnic...

Drive down High School Road 2.5 weeks and take a right turn at Ex-Ed Way...

Pull a U-turn around Homecoming Court and make a pit stop for fuel at Field Day Park...

(Leave sufficient time for a water-balloon ambush in the park)...

Find a spot in the Standardized Test Parking Lot and take the long difficult trek up SAT Mountain (hopefully your last trip)...

Now turn left on Early Decision Street...

Once back on Senior Highway, you will come to a "Y"...

If you had your 18th birthday before November 2nd, veer right on Presidential Election Boulevard. If not, stay left onto History Department Avenue and register for the Mock Vote...

Cruise down Senior Highway for another 4.5 weeks...

Exit Winter Formal Way and loop back to the main road...

At this point, the Highway becomes a steep dirt road. After the third switchback, you will come upon College Forest. Tricky maneuvering will guide you through this part of the excursion...

Once back on the road, it will straighten out for three to four more weeks...

You come to your last set of hairpins at the IB Exam Curves, consider yourself lucky if you caught the shortcut at the top of the hill...

Finally, the road widens, and you'll run into smooth pavement...

Exit on Promenade Lane and get back on Senior Highway again. It is now a fast moving four-lane freeway...

Pull over at the Senior Day Out Rest Stop, then go through Senior Sports Banquet Circle...

Sit tight, just one last stop on this trip at Graduation Speedway, where you'll hope the tall Oklahoman remembers your name right...

Take a left hand turn onto Graduation Party Way and wave out the window as you approach your last intersection where you'll find your own University Street among the thousands of options...

This street will take you down a road you've never been on before.

It will change your life forever, but you'll never forget what you'll find on University Street, just as you'll never forget the experiences you had here on SENIOR HIGHWAY!

Crazy cowgirls. Bo Forster and Amanda Christian display their wild costumes during Spirit Week, complete with an air machine to keep that bull looking fresh!

Hail Caesar! Jennifer Leddy and Matt Fox display their godliness in their togas during Spirit Week.

Long live the queen! Lauren Wenzel jumps for joy at the Homecoming Dance, ecstatic after being declared "Homecoming Queen 2004."

Beach party. Sydney Cantrell, Gigi Podolak, and Tad Norris enjoy a moment of peace without school at the coveted "beach front property" of the school.

Too hot to handle! Tyler Baker "brushes off" his school spirit on all the seniors during Class Color Day.

Fur frenzy. In costume for Spirit Week, Margaret Paas is pretty in pink...not to mention keeping warm in that coat.

To An Athlete Dying Young

The time you won your town the race
We chaired you through the market-place;
Man and boy stood cheering by,
And home we brought you shoulder-high.

To-day, the road all runners come,
Shoulder-high we bring you home,
And set you at your threshold down,
Townsmen of a stiller town.

Smart lad, to slip betimes away
From fields where glory does not stay
And early though the laurel grows
It withers quicker than the rose.

Eyes the shady night has shut
Cannot see the record cut,
And silence sounds no worse than cheers
After earth has stopped the ears;

Now you will not swell the rout
Of lads that wore their honours out,
Runners whom renown outran
And the name died before the man.

So set, before its echoes fade,
The fleet foot on the sill of shade,
And hold to the low lintel up
The still-defended challenge-cup.

And round that early-laurelled head
Will flock to gaze the strengthless dead,
And find unwithered on its curls
The garland briefer than a girl's.

A. E. Housman (1859-1936)

Bombs away! This year's seniors pull a water balloon prank on the LITTLE "picknicking" underclassmen during the BBQ on Field Day.

Ready...okay! Sophie Morton and Teige Muhlfeld hype it up in their aerobic gear to prepare for their first period class.

1. Daily readings. Read the news lately? Rita Farrell and Liz Floyd wrap themselves in the latest news coverage! ...Coverage?

2. Seniorly love. These watery eyes are not from crying, instead, Maggie Hoffman and Caitlin Dunn embrace and squint from the sun.

3. Two peas in a pod. Geoff Walker and Brandon Cooper leisurely sit...yes, they just sit...senior life is rough!

4. Computer hugger! Georgia Taylor redefines the title "tree hugger" for the senior love of technology.

WHO? ROCKS IS SENIORS!

Zzzz... Teagan Walter catches a quick 25 minute snooze in her cardboard bed.

Ohh baby! Andrew Cote shows some pasty skin for his good 'ole buddy, Dustin Hite.

Got milk? Will "MOO" Moore struts his udders while taking a break between events on Field Day.

Rule the school. The Pink Ladies, otherwise known as Veronica Hunsinger-Loe, Kourtnei Keller and Jen Leddy, kiss their last Spirit Week good-bye!

“ Good talk...See ya out there!”

- Geoff Walker (Forrest Gump)

Lauren Wenzel

Joe Turner

The Three Stooges. Moe (Tad Norris), Curly (Ian Soroka), and Larry (Spencer Adams) get their school spirit on as a rapper, weird flute player, and an astronaut...Hmm.

Butt who knows? Wes Graham is going to "Pump you up," class of 2005, for your last year and make you tough for the future.

Seniors

...appear on Comedy Central. Tad Norris and Lauren Wenzel can't keep their naturally kooky personalities under wraps.

...have someone get lost in their eyes. It's easy to get lost staring into the depths of Spencer Adams and Caitlin Dunn's eyes. Don't bother telling them how beautiful their eyes are though, they get that all the time.

...become Barbie and Ken. Blonde and beautiful. These two stunning blondes, Teige Muhlfeld and Geoff Walker, will team up to become the next iconic, gorgeous, and dynamic duo.

...become an Olympian. Athletes beware! Kristin Walla and Simi Hamilton are likely to take the Olympics by storm in the not so very distant future.

Colter Van Domelen and Halley Grundy are Most Likely To find the cure for cancer.

Most Likely To..

...have a break-dancing war.
Fo-shizzle dizzle Margaret Paas and Andrew Dwyer are the big nep-tizzle.

...write a best-selling novel.
Hardy and Austen they may not be, but you are likely to see novels by Naomi Jones and Tristan Mahaffey at the top of the New York Times Bestseller List before too long.

...lead a revolution.
History, here they come. Don't be surprised if you pick up the paper one morning to find out that Ian Soroka and Alie Wettstein have led a coup d'etat in some small South American country. Surely, you've seen this one coming.

...have a movie about their life.
Watch out Hollywood! Any movie about the fascinating lives of Max Grange and Maria Pies-sis would be sure to win more than its fair share of Academy Awards.

Teagan Walter and Colin Sledge are Most Likely To create a computer virus.

Seniors

...break their leg walking off a curb.

Maddy D'Amato and Hardy Anderson seem to have trouble keeping their bones in one piece, so it's a good thing they have each other to break their fall.

...star in a toothpaste commercial.

For a fresh feeling, look to Kourtnei Keller, with her new pearly whites, and Dane Butler to exemplify that million dollar smile.

...fight Mike Tyson.

Look out for Maggie Hoffmann's powerful right-hook and Jon Cavaleri's knock out upper-cut. You don't wanna be messin' with these tough seniors.

...marry a movie star.

Jennifer Aniston look out. Veronica Hunsinger-Loe is movin' in to take your man. Jacob Welsh is lookin' for an older lady, like Penelope Cruz. Either way these two are bound to have a star-studded marriage.

Jon Lafferty and Jackie Welgos are Most Likely To become ski bums.

Most Likely To..

...move to Never Never Land.

Looking for the second star to the right? These two seniors have found it. Jordan Friedland and Bo Forster are two kids who will, hopefully, never grow up.

...live on a farm.

Although they may not seem like the ranching type, Elyssa Ederly and Matt Fox have the perfect mix of hick and style to make life on the farm a little less country and a little more rock n' roll.

...Join The Real World cast.

"This is the true story of Tyler Baker and Sophie Morton, two Aspen High School students, picked to live in a house and have their lives taped, and find out what happens when people stop being polite and start getting REAL."

-The Real World

...have a painting featured in the Guggenheim.

Move over Van Gogh and Picasso, here come Jordana Loeb and Taylor Ferguson. With their stellar painting skills and creativity, these two are bound for greatness.

Weston Boyles and Kelsi Coia are Most Likely To make Hacky Sack an Olympic sport.

The Thinkers. Great minds think alike... or at least argue vehemently for hours at a time, like Ian Soroka, Veronica Hunsinger-Loe, Andrew Preusch, and Joe Turner who mimic the famous statue by Auguste Rodin.

Smile buddies. Good friends, Georgia Taylor and Sydney Prikryl, cozy up for the long cold winter ahead.

The Scenic Seniors!

At the intersection of fun, crazy, and wonderful, this part of town is all about having a good time.

I'm too sexy for my shirt. Jon Lafferty is intimidating, ferocious, and sexy!

Wet T-shirt contest? Scott Angus has got that sultry smoldering thing going on.

Freak out. Lauren Wenzel to Elyssa Edgerly: "Hasn't anyone ever told you that if you make that face for too long it will stay like that forever?"

View from the top. As the weather gets colder, the mezzanine fills with seniors like Kourtnei Keller

Don't worry, be happy. Stephanie Chiallov is absolutely glowing. Could it be that she is in Aspen for a whole year on exchange from Lyon, France?

Let your smile be your umbrella. It may be raining, but Sydney Cantrell doesn't let the weather get her down. Although New York is usually rainy, the Ex-Ed trips this year enjoyed a few beautiful days of sun

Just chillin'. Cole Cathcart knows how to relax and have a good time. He would rather be in school, of course, but spending a week on the beach in Mexico isn't that bad either.

It wasn't me! Like true friends, Jon Cavaleri and Gabe Grisolia try to pass the blame to each other.

"Smartest class to pass through Aspen High School."

Bench warmers. Caitlin Dunn, Jackie Welgos, and Maddy D'Amato take a break from studying English in front of the school.

Let loose. Brandon Cooper shows his senior spirit, letting it all hang out and really going for it by dressing up as a Keebler Elf for Field Day.

Watch that lobster. Seniors Jordan Friedland, Pat Faurer, Brock Strasbourger, junior DJ Furth, seniors Dane Butler and David Porter catch some rays with the infamous crab on Channel Islands.

A big softie. Senior Adrian Mortier soft his soft side while Helping the Homeless in NYC.

Hungry anyone? The Biking the Mickelson Trail clan enjoy a hearty breakfast before hitting the road.

26th Street

One more canyon to go! After capturing one canyon there is still work to be done for the students of Canyon Quest Extremes before the sun sets on another day.

Everyone's gotta drink. Sophomores Mookie Erickson, Vasha Kolobakhina, Cynthia Whitman and junior Zack Oden, prepare some water for the horses after a long day of riding on Horseback Riding in the La Sals.

Tums anyone?. Freshmen Taylor Huske, Brian Westerlind, and junior Logan Thacker inhale some giant eggrolls before biking the next 25 mile segment on Bay Area Bike Tour.

Farmer tan no more. During a brief break from paddling and watching the students, trip leader Matt Wells catches some rays.

Breathe in and out. Junior Pat Cote learns how to use his oxygen machine on Scuba Certification.

This is truly ART! Freshman Gretchen Gatzke learns which media of art will be used today.

Danger is my friend. Sophomore Scott Clancy smiles in the face of danger and thrives under it while on Colorado River Rafting.

Banditos in the canyon. While on Canoeing Canyonlands, some students dress-up like Banditios.

Only 10 more miles to go. Junior Elise Fornell and sponsor Betsy Engleman.

Experiential Education

Childish... NO WAY!
Relaxing on the beach in San Diego, Geraldine Graham and Karen Angus blow bubbles from their new necklaces.

Close bonds. Creating close ties while Horseback Riding on the La Sals mountains, this group gathers for a quick group shot.

AMERICA! After a breathtaking visit to the Empire State Building on NYC The Big Apple, freshman Whitney Mufson, senior Stephanie Chaillov, and sophomore Megan Raczak sport their new liberty hats.

Smile. While in New York Helping the Homeless, junior Jake Lansburgh lounges with his new friends at a children's school in the Bronx.

Partay! Splashing around in the ocean near San Diego, juniors Elyse Boelens, Britta Briscoe, freshman Maggie Melberg, seniors Jen Leddy, Maddy D'Amato, Ian Soroka, and Sydney Prikryl take advantage of their day at the beach.

Spish splash! Packing as many people into one boat as possible, the riders of Cataract Canyon aren't afraid to get a little wet and a little close.

Ready, set, GO! Ready or not, these divers on Scuba Certification are going down to explore the bottom of the deep, blue pool.

Man down. While trekking through the canyons on Canyon Quest, junior Paul Britvar takes a crash landing. How does that dirt taste?

Batter's up... NO! Sophomore Eric Sciarrone gets ready to hunt for elk in the Elk Mountains here in Aspen.

Ghetto superstar. After a new platinum tooth and a crazy hair cut, there is no doubt that freshman Evan Rather came straight from the ghetto.

Flower girl. Feeling grimy while Canoeing the Canyonlands, junior Carly Rosen dresses herself in bright, yellow daisies. Lookin' good!

King? On Five Days Five Ways, freshman Michael Wagner pretends to be a king with his crown... or is it a fake?

Picasso? With a paint brush in his hand, you never know what senior Cale Mitchell will create next.

Spirit Week

Coming Home to the little Town of Aspen High School...

In Glenwood there are Strawberry Days, Carbondale hosts Potato Days, and Basalt is home to River Days. In the Town of Aspen High School, we have Spirit Days. The Student Senate, directed by Sarah Benson, planned and organized 6 days of festivities. On these days, citizens all got together and enjoyed a spectacular week. There was Pajama Day, Decade Day, Toga Day, Class Color Day, and finally Field Day! The citizens gave a spectacular display of spirit and spunk. It was a Spirit Week to remember.

Mine.

Senior Colter Van Domelen is secure in the arms of junior Jyace Stutsman, who gives off a warning look to any who might intrude on their manly bonding session on Pajama Day.

Dirt off your shoulder.

Senior Jon Lafferty shows a little skin as he follows the guidelines of Pajama Day: wear what you sleep in.

Peace, love, happiness.

Sophomores Liz White and Cynthia Whitman bring great colors to the halls on Decade Day as they relive the 60's.

Just like Brad.

On Toga Day, juniors RJ Jensen and Logan Thacker, and freshman Taylor Preusch each have an uncanny resemblance to Brad Pitt in Troy.

Red hot.

Juniors Felissa Magana and Anabel Mesa embrace one another, each sporting red clothing.

Dressed to impress.

Junior Kelly Mitchell and sophomores Sophie Ben-Hamoo, Caitlyn Carlson and Skye Weinglass get their 80's on for Decades Day.

What's my age again?

Mistakenly dressed in Senior Blue, freshman Joey Catheart looks confused among the mass of pink worn by fellow freshmen "Squeak" Wagner, Michael Badon, Josh Weiss, and Sam Coffey.

PJ pride.

Back to the Future.

Juniors Elyse Boelens, Nathan Work, Rachel Weitzenkorn, and Brooke Sheffer create an overwhelming flashback to the 20's, 40's and 60's on Decade Day.

80's strike back.

The bright, wide spectrum of colors displayed by seniors Sydney Cantrell, Kendra Hoeke, Teagan Walter, and Gigi Podolak give them a fierce and somewhat intimidating presence.

Seeing blue.
Seniors Bo Forster and Amanda Christian demonstrate "seniorly love" as they dress for Class Color Day.

Pink pride.
Freshman Morgan Boyles is obviously not afraid of pink, like when he suited up for Class Color Day.

Slumber number.
On Pajama Day, junior Nena Sivess and sophomore Traci Clapper get friendly in their one-piece sleepwear.

Blast from the Past.
Sophomores Isabelle Velise, Brandi Mitchell, and Stella Doble bring the Renaissance to Aspen High School for Decade Day.

School, homework, and rock and roll. Decade Day presented seniors Michelle Koehler and Jordana Loeb with a chance to rock.

Toga! Toga! Thankfully, freshmen Taylor Feldman and Steven Boenning didn't take Toga Day to Animal House extremes.

Morning glory. Even in her pajamas, senior Cindy Peña looks alert and excited for the school day ahead.

Field Day

Get your Amish on.

The "Amish in Aspen" Field Day team, led by sophomore Sherry Wang and senior Hallgrimur Stefansson, displayed their random team spirit during the parade.

Teenage, yes! Mutant... maybe. Turtles...?

Junior Kelly Bogaert, sophomore Robyn Gerbaz, senior Liz Floyd, freshman Haley Hoffman, and sophomore Jacqui Edgerly got mean in green.

Aleatraz outbreak. Senior Tad Norris looked suspicious on Field Day as he frantically sprinted through obstacles while dressed in pinstripes.

Don't trip!

Sophomore Ayla Angelo had trouble running down the last stretch of the dress-up relay.

Hard knock life.

Kendall Evans, Sarah Benson, Cerena Thomsen, and Geraldine Graham take a break from the strenuous festivities of the day.

The last straw.

Sophomore Matt Cooper works with his team to try to win the championship round to be the best of all the Field Day teams.

Bearly there?

Seniors Tyler Baker and Naomi Jones took a break from trashcans and joined their "Bear Necessity" Field Day team.

At the center of all four mountains, the Town of Aspen High, once a year, gets its jig on under the harvest moon. They celebrate the liveliness and spirit of their community. The party started bumpin' in the Bedford Ballroom at the Snowmass Conference Center on Saturday, October 9th, and didn't stop until the wee hours.

Left: Senior Matt Fox, juniors Elise Fornell, and Connie Luu.

Sophomores Ryder Fyrwald and Elle Stark.

Sophomore Trevor Niningger and senior Sydney Prikryl.

Halloween

M&M Happy.

Seniors Reilly Gallagher, Elyssa Edgerly, Maddy D'Amato, Lauren Wenzel, Jackie Welgos, Michelle Koehler, and Caitlin Dunn enjoy eating the M&M candies so much that they even dress like them!

O.I. Kevin.

Joining the army? Junior Kevin Coulombe, an armyman, keeps an eye out for the Halloween scariest.

Nap Time!

After being deprived of her daily nap time, freshman Meagan Jonsson collapses into the lockers.

Fashion Forward.

Sharing the newest fashion trends sophomores Lexi Paparo, Skye Weinglass, Megan Raczak, and Caitlyn Carlson inform everyone that stripes and wings are the new cool thing on the streets.

Bunny Babes!

Hearing of the newest trend, junior Britta Briscoe and freshman Jennie McLellan put on ears and tails to be in style.

Scary Sophs!

Sarah Richardson greets her royal subjects, while Cynthia Whitman frightens the young freshmen.

Prince All.

Alladin and Jasmine (Junior Billy Bernard and his teacher Andrea Ames) keep a look out for their lost magic carpet.

Mock Presidential Election

I'm ready. Almost half of the student body waits for their chance to vote in the Mock Election.

Gettin' the point across! Senior Brandon Cooper shares his views during the debates. He even pulls off the candidate look with a suit and tie.

Class with the Commander. President Bush makes an unexpected visit to Aspen High! He even takes time to shake some of the students hands.

Poster pride. Seniors Maddy D'Amato and Elyssa Edgerly show their Bush support after meeting him during his surprise appearance.

I-RACK? Junior Katrina DeVore proudly displays her campaign slogan.

Political pose. Senior Colter Van Domelen demonstrates the physical political posture while giving his rebuttal.

I voted. Senior Maria Peisses drops her ballot into the box.

Goodbye Kendall.

When Kendall Evans arrived at Aspen High School in 1995, it was a different place than it is today, in 2005.

There was no IB program, no $40 million facility; there was a smaller student body and a smaller teaching staff.

By his own description, "It was a very small school, most of the kids had grown up here, most of the teachers had been working here for twenty years. I liked it right away. There was a warmth to the school. There were great personal student-teacher relationships. Teachers seemed to take a great pride in what they did. I've worked at schools where every break the teachers would be in the faculty lounge complaining about the kids and comparing notes on troublemakers. It wasn't like that at Aspen High School. The teachers seemed to be aware that there was some bigger mission." Ten years later, Kendall still loves working here but feels it's time to move on. He plans to keep working, however. Ideally, he would like to go overseas for a while, maybe take up a position at an international American school. In the long term, he'd like to work in the non-profit sector, maybe something with conservation. He will remember AHS with fondness. When asked what was most rewarding as a principal he said, "The most gratifying thing for me is watching those seniors walk across the stage to receive their diplomas and knowing that they're decent people."

2 When asked to say a few words about Kendall, Charlie Anastas, the vice principal, couldn't say enough nice things about him. "Well," says Charlie, 3 "I was on the hiring committee. At that time we had had a revolving door of sorts in the principal's office. People would stay for maybe one or two years, but we couldn't find anybody who was willing to really commit to being here long term. As a result, there were a lot of problems at the school. Discipline became lax because the standards would change with every new principal. We knew that we had to find somebody who was a strong leader, a good disciplinarian, and who would be willing to stick around. We also needed somebody who would be good at working with the teachers. When Kendall came, it was immediately obvious that he fit all these criteria. So we hired him." Ten years later, Charlie still believes Kendall was the right choice. "Kendall is extremely knowledgeable and experienced. He can deal with circumstances quickly and decisively. He has sound judgement and is a good listener. His expertise is just phenomenal." Personally, too, Charlie has enjoyed working with Kendall. "For me he has been a great mentor. Not one day has gone by, not one day, that I haven't learned something from him." What higher praise is there to give?

How to get to Senior Highway

Running circles endlessly around the town's Roundabout, the juniors were in constant motion as they endured the most rigorous academic year in high school, prepared for the SATs and ACTs in the Spring, and put on the biggest social event of the year, PROM! As the social planners for the town, the juniors energetically put on fundraisers to make money for an elegant Prom. The juniors used Winter Formal as a rehearsal to practice their party planning skills and to raise the extra needed bucks. The class was able to hold a magnificent Prom in Spring with the money they raised from their fundraiser tactics:

1. Field Day BBQ
2. BINGO Night
3. Winter Formal
4. Spaghetti Dinner
5. Friday Night Movies

While the juniors ushered the graduation for the class of 2005, they pictured themselves up on the stage in only a year's time. As the class of 2006 wrapped up their junior year, they prepared for what lies ahead in the chaos of Senior Highway.

Rockin' and a rollin'. Jessie Musaeus and Danny Bacheldor impersonated their idols from the 80's on Spirit Week.

The next Vanilla Ice? Posing like a gangsta, Luke Gosda pulled some hot moves on the dance floor at Homecoming.

Fun and comfy! Wearing their favorite pajamas on P.J. Day, Kelly Mitchell and Katrina DeVore sported their Spiderman and Power Ranger inspired outfits.

Nerd gone WILD! Dressed up in his festive Field Day outfit, Sean Warnecke was proud to be a nerd.

Go ninja, go ninja, GO! All dressed in black, D.J. Furth gets ready to open a can of whop-%*# on Field Day.

Charmed. Enchanting us with their Halloween spirit, Corie Thompson and Carly Magill paraded around in their witch costumes.

Junior Parking

Parking is always an issue here at Aspen High, but the juniors stretched the rules and parked in creative and unusual places.

An obvious first option. When juniors seek closer parking areas, the AVSC building is almost as good as the senior lot... until you get towed.

Plan B. If you are lucky, the gates at the Latter-Day Saints Church will be open, offering a convenient lot just across from the high school.

Less convenient, yet more rebellious. Not much closer than the designated junior lot, the ARC 3-hour spaces are frequently patrolled by officers of the law, giving students the chance to experience true rebellion.

Last resort. When all else fails, desperate juniors resort to parking illegally in spots reserved for handicapped citizens.

Parking at the ARC

Catch me if you can. Hoping that the police don't notice, Ry Perry stealthily parks his car at the ARC.

Parking costs money? Hailey Stewart simply grins at her forty dollar parking ticket from the City of Aspen for leaving her car at the ARC.

No limits. While others test their rebellious side by parking at the ARC, Corie Thompson goes the extra mile and desperately parks in Dave Conarroe's backyard.

Wild child. "I enjoy the rebellious feeling when I park at the ARC," says James True before being slammed with parking tickets.

Bumping a ride. Carly Magill snuggles up close to Brittney Britt and Aaron Cummins because she knows they are her only ride home.

"I can never find my car in this parking lot! My friends always steal it!"

- Jessica Andrews

"I like it... it's close."

- Ben Beattie

Though many juniors chose to bend the rules in search of "closer" parking, some follow the rules and park in the designated Junior lot.

Jessica Andrews

Ben Beattie

Justin Faurer

What's my age again? Wylie Melberg seems confused or simply clueless as to which lot he is expected to park in. Hopefully he will be careful to avoid seniors as he leaves his car in their lot.

Role model. Ryan Stout has no problem parking in the junior lot. In fact, he seems to take pride in the deed.

DO HAVE SCHOOL SPIRIT. A few girls of the class (and Jyace Stutsman) show their school spirit by dressing in all red on class Color Day.

DO MINGLE WITH OTHER GRADES. Tucker Helmus hangs out with sophomore Rory Suma and shows that it's okay to have younger friends.

DON'T LET IB CLASSES STRESS YOU OUT. Christy Severy and Kelly Bogaert take a break during a hard and stressful class of IB English with Nancy.

DO GO TO FIELD DAY. Kristi Bowden dresses up in swimming gear to demonstrate junior sportsmanship.

"Do party and hang out with friends before school dances but don't get caught doing anything naughty."

Alex Gitlitz

DON'T GET DETENTION. Hailey Stewart enthusiastically points out her name on "the list" of detention students.

DON'T LOSE YOUR BELONGINGS. Jon Gold searches through the Lost and Found endlessly trying to find his things in the bottomless pile of junk.

STOP MEANS GO! While filling out of the school at the end of the day, an annoyed junior gets a bit confused as to what the signs means.

BOTTLE NECK! The purpose of road signs is to avoid this problem, but James True (van) does not agree.

Doug Steinhurst

That means what....?

Juniors try to interpret some of the road signs.

Patrick Kane

DO NOT ENTER means "shortcut" to Eric Palmer.

Brooke Sheffer

NO PARKING ANY TIME to Connie Luu means guaranteed front row parking.

How to get to Junior Boulevard...

Before starting up the engines of your (hopefully) new car, fasten your seat belt and prepare for the ride of your life down Sophomore Avenue.

After being eternally thankful for not being a freshman anymore, get on the road as the rulers of the underclassmen. Midway down the road, realize you forgot something, so head back home and pick up some old friends who were lost in freshmen chaos. Go one block down High School Road for the Spirit Week Parade and successfully make green the new pink. Continue down the highway until you hit a fork in the road. Now is the time to decide whether to continue down the road of overachievers with IB or take the less challenging route of not IB. You will go over the PSAT and PLAN test pot-holes while making the trip to the next rest stop. There, stop and take pictures of friends skiing on winter break. Knowing that next year's Winter Formal will be your responsibility, get back on the road and enjoy the free ride. After struggling over Exam Pass, keep climbing a little bit longer until you reach the Peak of LAST CSAP! Next, enjoy the big downhill of spring break and at the bottom realize you have almost made it to your destination. Anxiously drive through the last weeks of school until you finally arrive at Junior Boulevard!! You are two years down the road and ready for more!

Snack break.

While taking a break from their hard day's work, Noah Hoffman, Ryan Chaloupka, and Haylen Gregory chill in the commons.

Freshmen

How to get to Sophomore Avenue

To safely conquer High School Highway while exiting the Middle School Sidewalk, be sure to get a map and abide by the following directions.

Take a right off of the Middle School Sidewalk, turning directly onto High School Highway. All girls veer left onto Initiation Intersection to be the target of disgusting substances thrown by your senior citizens, and then quickly steer back onto the highway. While turning onto the highway for the first time, you will experience traffic jams and loud honking horns. You will be forced to sing Happy Birthday songs to your passing elderly citizens. Make a pit stop on Ex. Ed. Easy Street to meet some of your neighbors. Then buckle back up for a ride down Spirit Lane. At the end of Spirit Lane, take a left onto Field Day Cul-de-sac. Break there to be bombarded with water balloons by your elders. Continue for 29 miles, then halt on Homecoming Haven. Hop right back on the highway and take a vigorous drive through Academic Alley. Take two weeks off from your drive to play in the snow and participate in winter sports. Turn back on the highway to brace yourself for the Exam Cliffs. After defeating the cliffs, stop to experience your first Winter Formal Circle. Continue on for a while longer to take yet another detour on Spring Break Terrace. Get back on the highway one last time to take a final exam on your driving abilities for the year. After you finish this test, take a cruise down to Simple Plaza to end your drive at Summer Square. There you can prepare yourself for your upcoming drive down Sophomore Avenue.

A blast from the past. Jennie McLellan, Haley Kaufman, Whitney Mufson, Sarah Nininger, and Haley Hoffman, aka The Winnie the Pooh Crew, pose for a childhood flashback.

Yeah babay. Whitney Wickes and Sam Coffey hit it off while strolling down Homecoming Haven.

Sports

Big time dreams, small town heroes.

Life in the small town of Aspen High sometimes gets a bit dry and boring, but time can be filled by joining sports teams. Sports push the inhabitants to travel and compete against other towns, both far and near.

From Tennis to Football, from Softball to Nordic Skiing, this small town has it all! Citizens pursue excellence in countless competitions, with successes ranging across the board. Practicing everyday is a huge sacrifice, but the athletes commit time and are rewarded occasionally with trophies and victories, but all gain memories to last a lifetime. Injuries and illnesses plague many athletes on various teams, which can be expected in the climate and resort that is Aspen. Although teammates are lost to exchange programs across the globe, teams struggle to compete on the same elite level as their competitors. Overall it is filled with its own surprises, miracles, and triumphs. As always the sporting legacy and state championships will continue far into the future of the small town we call Aspen High.

Destroying the competition. Junior Tucker Helmus confuses his competition by making which way he is going to pass the ball unclear.

A league of his own. Sophomore Ryan Chaloupka beats the opposition when racing towards the ball in an Aspen v. Basalt soccer game.

Squat. Looking cool with her shades, junior Carly Magill waits for the ball plop into her mitt.

Setting up for a win. Demonstrating excellent form and desire to win, freshman Olive Tampol sets the ball to a teammate.

Time to unwind. All-star pitcher junior Brittney Britt winds up for a practice pitch during the fall softball season.

SOFTBALL

"1, 2, 3, eeehhhhhh!"
Senior Liz Floyd

"Hit a triple. Don't trip!"
Junior Brittany Britt

"Hit this!"
Junior Carly Magill

"Softball is like war; it's really difficult."
Junior Nena Sivess

Concentrate.

Sophomore Traci Clapper watches the ball intently as she gets ready to hit the ball way into left field.

Dugout.

The team is able to have some pre-game bonding time before they run out to win.

Juggling.

Sophomore Taylor Schlepp and freshman Grace Seigle get stuck with ball duty at the end of the pre-game warm up.

Break time.

Juniors Brittney Britt and Carly Magill rest during practice to goof off with this lovable dog.

OUCH!

Sophomore Ashley Ryan puts a nice cold ice pack on her lip after being smacked with the softball.

How neat!
During the softball season this year, the girls decided to concentrate on their game and slack off on their cleanliness.

Mine, Mine!
Freshman Maggie Melberg and juniors Carly Rosen and Nena Sivess wait to catch the ball before the other gets it.

We dry clean it, not iron it. With Aspen's stereotype of being rich from other teams in mind, enthusiastic softball girls came away from this incredible season with their own funky sayings, great memories, and a handful of victories. Amazingly, out of the seventeen girls who joined this season Liz Floyd was the only senior. Despite this lack of seniority, these girls enjoyed their share of "pee your pants" moments this season, exclaimed Coach Ed Zane. Like the time when Brittney Britt hit a ball way past left field and tripped on her own feet making the run a single and not a triple. Ask any member of this vivacious team about their experience this autumn, and they will reply, "softball players have the most fun!"

Patiently waiting.
Sophomore Reghan Mahaffey stands ready in the outfield knowing the ball will meet her mitt in the near future.

Varsity.
Front Row: Carly Magill, Nena Sivess, Carly Rosen. Middle Row: Traci Clapper, Brittney Britt, Ashley Ryan, Liz Floyd, Lauren Peisach, Kelly Bogaert. Sophomore Ryder Fyrwald leaps into the air for a hard header.

Too sexy for football.
Seniors Gabe Grisolia, Colter Van Domelen and Hardy Andersen demonstrate the true unity of the team.

Hot potato.
Sophomore Nicky Anastas glances up for a quick pass.

Run, Gabe, run!
Senior Gabe Grisolia attacks the ball while blowing past the CRMS players.

The Aspen boys' soccer team started the season strong but were later slowed as they lost numerous players due to injuries and other events. With only four seniors, the team was relatively young, but had great leadership. Captains Colter Van Domelen and Stephen Buzbee led the team to end 4th in their 3A division against fierce, state-ranked competition. The season came to an abrupt end as the boys were defeated by Vail Mtn. giving the team a season record of 4-10.

Model of concentration.
Senior Colter Van Domelen concentrates intently on his ball handling skills.

The AHS girls' volleyball team might have not won every game, but their spirit was never lost. Whether they were playing air guitar, taking "special stops" along the road, eating Oh's, or patiently awaiting the game, the v-ball girls always had a good time. With every game the players developed new relationships, but the season abruptly ended when the Skiers lost in the fourth game against Olathe while battling for a place in Districts.

No attitude please!!
 Junior Varsity coach, Sarah Benson, explains to her girls that she has no tolerance for attitude.

The high school Varsity boys shoot off from the finish line. As they go, they can hear their teammates' screaming voices.

Ready, set, go!

Everyone is quiet and ready to move. As the horn blows, the AHS Varsity girls run to victory.

This year the cross country team was blessed with only three returning seniors. At the Montrose race they brought home a 4th place trophy. The memorable moments included good times and bad. The race in Delta was an example of one of the challenging times. Running in sub-zero temperature while it was raining was never fun. Cinzzetti's, on the other hand, was one of the fun moments. After a decent showing in the Denver meet, the team headed to Cinzzetti's for some good "all you can eat" Italian food. It was a tasty evening for the team. All enjoyed the funny comments made by witty Coach Keleher. Many members of the team were also part of the Nordic team. They said that they do it to keep in shape, but rumor had it that the girls did it to see Noah's pees! Congratulations on a great year and good luck next year!

"I coach because it gives me an excuse to run, and it keeps me sane," explains coach Keleher.

Front Row: Jake O'Connor. Second Row: Coach Zeke Tiernan, Alex Gundermann, Nate Marrs, Susey Davis, Katie Bird, Laura Hatanaka, Lauren Lacy. Guess

How many people run in each race?

- a) 100-150
- b) 20-50
- c) 200-220
- d) 10-15

V-Fence! The Aspen football team's defense is just too strong for
Norwood to break through it.

Goodbye seniors. Seniors Will
Moore, Hunter Baar, Brett Payne,
Jacob Welsh, Daniel Rave, Cole
Cathcart, Michael McGinn, and Dustin Hite leave the field after their senior rose ceremony.

Moore air! Senior Will Moore sprawls his body across the field and grasps the football before it hits the ground.

Huddle up. After a close first quarter against Cedaredge, the team comes together to discuss their strategy to defeat their opponent.

"Determined"...that is how most of the AHS football players described their team. The boys started out their season with an awesome win against Norwood. Although they didn't win many more games, they pulled together all of their strength and spirit, made a dramatic comeback, and kicked Cedaredge's butt for the one game that counts the most: Homecoming. This is only the third year that Aspen has had a varsity football team, and although they may not be the top ranking team in the league, they sure have the most fun and determination.

Boys' GOLF

"We played well, enjoyed the tournaments, and became a team."
Senior Colin Sledge

"I love golf for the competition and because I like to win."
Junior Wylie Melberg

"Shout out to JR and Nathaniel. Colin was a great leader."
Junior Teddy Karlinski

"This year we played better against the other teams in the region."
Head Coach Henry Adams

You could tell by the giant smiles on the faces of these golfers that they had something more lurking underneath the surface. It was the hunger for triumph in a game designed by frustrated Scots and a bottle of whiskey. In other words, a formula for hopeless frustration and the utmost aggravation. Somehow, with more players than ever, these fine gents remained cool and collected running in fifty foot putts left and right and making birdies like it was their middle name. Altogether, they worked hard and set up a strong line of golfers for years to come. The boys highlighted their season at the home tournament Aug. 31 with a team 3rd place finish. Junior Teddy Karlinski finished one stroke out of medalist honors with a three-over-par score of 74. Junior Wylie Melberg followed with a 76.

Boys' TENNIS

"I got you, Sherril."
Senior Max Redmond

"Aller!"
Junior Glenn Engelman

"Can't touch this!"
Sophomore Skyler Maclean

"Silly string...it's wonderful and enjoyable."
Head Coach Sherril Kerr

"LOVE" was never the Boys' Tennis team's score this year, but they sure had a lot of it. This season they peaked with a 2nd place finish in the Delta tournament and 3rd place in the Colorado Springs tournament. The boys played their hearts out every game and always made it an enjoyable time. The main accomplishment this season was attacking Head Coach Sherril Kerr with eleven cans of silly string. Fortunately for her, she looked good in a string cocoon.

Coach Ketchum referred to his team members as a group that ROCKS! He had seven awesome seniors including deceased Alex Terral who was with the team in spirit throughout the season. Coach Ketchum said that this was not basketball, this was IB Basketball. Most of the team was a part of the IB Program, therefore making basketball a pretty smart sport! The boys experienced some quality time together when they had a 3-a-Day: midnight madness, morning practice, and afternoon practice. The highlight of the season, in general, was watching the change and improvement in these guys. Each one grew in various levels, but mostly in confidence. Senior Joe Turner got the "Most Improved" award. Coach Ketchum admitted that he was possibly closer to this group of athletes than any other group.

Remember. Father Tim Terral sits by his son, Alex Terral's jersey knowing he still suits up for each game.

Junior Carly Magill

"Traveling...?!"
Junior Brittany Fortier

"Drop it like it's JADE!"
Junior Corie Thompson

It's a Carly thing. Juniors Carly Rosen and Carly Magill keep their eyes on the ball even when the other team is shooting.

Keep out! Senior Liz Floyd and Junior Nena Sivess keep the other team out of scoring range with their game faces.

Eyes on the basket. Focusing on the basket, senior Liz Floyd prepares to shoot a free throw.

The Plan. During a time-out, Coach Conarroe fills the team in on the strategy for winning the game.

Ready to score. Junior Carly Magill uses her bag of street-ball skills to beat the defense and score.

The re-replacements. Players on the bench watch the game intently while waiting for the action to come to their end of the court.

Varsity team.

Although only seventeen girls were on the team, there was no shortage of good times. Dave Conarroe was the head coach for the first time since 1998. The theme of the year was attitude, both mental and physical. R.O.O.T.S., Rules, Opponents, Officials, The game and Self, was the attitude motto throughout the season. One of the most memorable moments was beating Basalt both times the teams met. Coach Conarroe attributed the successes the team had to, "Being a such small team, also, everyone enjoyed being at the practices and games and it showed."

Just another shot. Junior Corie Thompson keeps her composure while shooting her free throws.

Lets get ready to rumble!!
The music has started, the crowd is cheering and the boys skate on to the ice ready for another exciting game.

Play nice boys.
A play is abruptly stopped as the referee calls a penalty on an Aspen player.

Yeah team!!
The team bangs helmets and joins together to congratulate each other on a spectacular goal.

Bring it on.
An AHS defenseman prepares to help protect his net from an oncoming opponent.

Go for the goal.
Speeding towards the goal, Senior Tad Norris is hopeful for a centering pass from a teammate to complete the play and score.

Switch it up!

After a long tiring play, the team has a line change to give all the players a well deserved rest.

Face off.

Junior Sam Harder and others gather at center ice anxiously awaiting the drop of the puck to start the second period.

The boys hockey team had an amazing season with tons of laughs and wins! The season started out a little slow due to injuries, but the boys bounced back with great force and determination, winning their next several games. They had a terrific record ranking 3rd in state for most of the season. This year for the first time, the hockey state playoffs were held at the home rink and Aspen pulled away with a promising win 5-1 against Summit. Unfortunately their state dreams were cut short after a disappointing loss to Machebeuf.

On February 19th the ski team added to their successful record with a State Championship for the boys and a third place finish on the girls' side. Led by Nordic Head Coach Travis Moore, Aspen finished with three skiers in the top ten for both classic and freestyle. Brandon Cooper placed second in classic and sixth in skate. In Alpine, junior Paul Britvar captured the slalom title, and Matt Fox led Aspen with bronze in giant slalom. Sophomore Laura Hatanaka finished third and fourth in classic and freestyle. Junior Christy Severy and sophomore Cornelia Carpenter followed. Sophomore Jenny Hearn dominated the girls' races winning both slalom and GS by over one second in each. No skier had swept both races since the 1980s.

RUCKUS

"Britney Spears, eat your heart out!"
Senior Jordana Loeb

"Shall we dance?!"
Senior Jen Leddy

"Phago-size me!"
Senior Veronica Husinger-Loe

"The seniors rocked this year!"
Senior Laura Beach

Dance team was different this year compared to any other year. For the first time Ruckus had a Varsity and a Junior Varsity squad. The Varsity squad was made up of 7 Juniors and 4 seniors, but the JV squad was all freshmen. With the seven new dancers and the ten veterans the dance team was a great success. Our little Varsity team went all the way to Denver to compete against the top squads in Colorado for States. The team worked hard together to make this year's dance team the best yet.

Rule the School

Teachers driving us to the future

Teachers, start your engines on August 25th and prepare for your five hundred and some passengers to board on the 30th. Students, don't forget to take your first pit-stop at the counseling center to make sure your schedule is perfect before you start your epic voyage. Then hold on tight for the bumpy ride ahead through the academic year. Once Karen or Geraldine become your B.F.F, make your way to the laboratory department. After you have suited up in you nerd glasses and black leather bib, your dissection time has arrived. After the liver pulling is over, merge back onto Academic Highway. Ride ten miles and land in France, Mexico...or both! French women or Mexican beaches. What ride do you choose? Back to your journey. You are cruising on Academic Highway again for another fifty two miles when the exit ramp appears for the Math Department. Park it here for a few equations and sine, cosine, and tangent rules to prepare you for your next trek. You start to climb Side Stair Celler Pass for fifty seven miles until the doors open to Reading Rainbow. Pull off onto the rest area and read a couple books, write a couple papers on the couple books, and use big vocabulary when talking to these wonderful teachers. Now leave. As you wave good-bye, do not forget to make a pit stop into our history. Spin the globe, fight some wars, become a leader, and you have got your history lesson. Peel out of there and make your way to the land of storytelling. Do not speak here or your story time will quickly end. Do some research, read some books on your own (weird huh?), and make some copies. Now leave. Watch out Business World, here we come! Leave your car there and hop onto your energy efficient bicycle. Two wheels are always better than four. Peddle on down the Side Stair Celler Two Pass and pump more iron in your P. E. class. Sweat some and then hitch-hike 123 miles to get to know our very own foreigners. Walk over the pedestrian cross ramp to meet and greet a few of our warm hearted Special Ed. friends. Spend some extra Q.T. there and then leave. But before you depart the building, do not forget to say a special thanks and good-bye to the friendly office and school administration folks. Now unload, take a three month summer break and prepare for yet another wonderful journey. Enjoy!

Hmmmmmm. Senior Steven Meyer and junior Peter Durrance contemplate knowledge over a fun day in the sun . . . a tough choice for these two.

Get it? Got it? Good! Freshman Natalie Obermeyer focuses intently as she receives assistance from Mrs. McKinney.

Mile 100

Working with a smile. For tips on how to work comfortably in class talk to sophomore Elle Stark. She knows the relaxing positions for each subject.

This su+%%! Senior Andrew Cote is hypnotized by his left arm during class reading time. His bus ride is ending soon and he wants to make sure he enjoys every last bit of high school!

Freak out! Letting out a squeal of anxiety, junior Jayce Stutsman knows that his bus ride does not end for another year! Academics seem to REALLY stress him out!

Miss Academic. Junior Lacy Mosher gets to wear the academic sash this year. Unlike Jayce, she is calm, collected, and prepared for the bumpy bus ride ahead.

Administration & Board

Computer games? Stacy Davis and Patty Jones unfortunately don't have the time to play, it's all work for these two.

Aspen spirit. Athletic Director Carol Sams goes and supports all of the school teams.

Tons of papers. Kendall Evans works hard at his desk surrounded by mounds of papers.

Board patrol. These are the people who make our school function. They are Fred Peirce, Laura Kornasiewicz, Jon Seigle, Sally Hansen, and Alice Davis.

Spillsport...not. Vice Principal Charlie Anastas enjoys supporting the school sports teams...as long as their members don't have detention.

School Board

The School Board is made up of five talented, caring, active individuals. The two recent newcomers are Laura Kornasiewicz and Sally Hansen. The other three members are retiring after one more year. For most AHS students, the purposes of the School Board are unknown. Laura Kornasiewicz clarified that for us, "We set policies for what the community (including students) wants from the school, such as certain student qualities, academic levels, citizenship...[etc]." The Board also would like us to know that any decision they make is made with the student's learning interests in mind. Superintendent Dr. Piana Sirko, believe it or not, isn't the 'head honcho' of the school district, she is the only employee of the school board. Dr. Sirko makes the changes for the district that they (the Board) deem necessary.

"We [the board] see a vision. We take our time and we try to perfect that vision."

— Jon Seigle

Front Office

Excuses, tardies, and absences are all part of a normal day in the office. Patty Jones considers her luck changed because she is retiring after this year. Though we're sad, she's overjoyed. We asked Patty and Stacy who they see in the office the most, and they replied, "The best and the worst kids, never the ones in between."

Kendall and Charlie are the principal and vice principal. Charlie is in charge of pre-arranged absences and punishments for "out-of-line students" while Kendall handles everything else, including tons of paperwork. As well as being the athletic director, Carol Sams serves as the school's clubs coordinator.

The AHS Board and office help make us a wonderful and productive school. They work very hard to please our community and most of the time, they succeed.

Counselors and Library

I don't wanna take English. Geraldine Graham helps freshman Stephen Pike change his schedule, so he can take all the classes he wants.

Cram time!! Several students utilize the computers in the library to do some last minute studying before upcoming exams.

How do I use this??? Assistant librarian Lisa Howard studies the computer while she checks in the new stack of books.

This is MY printer. Lauren Cassatt reminds all students that this is her personal printer and not for student use.

Lauren Cassatt, Geraldine Graham, Desi Barney, Karen Angus, and Lisa Howard.

The Library and Counseling Departments were always very busy. With teachers always scheduling Lauren Cassatt to explain research projects or help with Works Cited, free time was hard to find. The Counseling Department was swamped the first semester with college applications but slowed down to enjoy during the second semester. Although the Library and Counseling suites were miles apart, they were close at heart.

Nearly everyday, the librarians spoke with the counselors (or vice-versa) about students, projects, or weekend activities. Their relationship was friendly because they are all such good friends. The computers were frequently used and very popular in both the Library and Counselor suites. It was common to find all the computers being used for e-mail and homework. The librarians and counselors look forward to helping students everyday.

"We the librarians are the book ends in the staff photo."

- Lauren Cassatt

Yearbook

Silly seniors! Sophie Morton, Rita Farrell, and Kristin Walla look happy, but they're really sad because this is their last year in yearbook.

Yay Nance. After a busy fall in Russia adopting her son Sam, Nancy Haddad finally returned to the yearbook staff for semester two.

Hard at Work. Nancy Roach is an expert at keeping her students on task.

Newcomers. Freshmen Nathalie Nevins, Suzey Davis, Jennie McLellan, Janie Gosney, and Haley Kaufman are learning the ropes of yearbook.

Juniors! Corey Thompson, Justin Faurer, Connie Luv, Elyse Boelens, Britta Briscoe and Win Charles are going to be the next head editors.

"There's as much work to do in yearbook as there is in 5 IB classes put together, yet I still keep coming back every year." -Junior Elyse Boelens

Sophomores! Megan Kaczak, Kyla Walter, Sara Faurer, Haley Ortman, Kelly Williams, Page Cottrell, and Sherry Wang have two more years of fun in yearbook class.

Most people think of a slacker class when they think of electives, but Yearbook is anything but. Beside publications, yearbook is the other class you can take at AHS that produces a profitable product, so the staff worked hard all year to create an enjoyable yearbook.

Although the staff was dedicated to making a quality book, they didn't forget to have a little bit of fun too. "Yearbook is so cool!" exclaims sophomore Haley Ortman. To sum up this year... "Yearbook...it's a book that recaps the year, weird!" -senior Sophie Morton.

"Yearbook: when people go from lovable to annoying by simply adding a camera to their neck."

- senior Kristin Walla

Publications

Hard at work. Junior Cecella Hendricks reads a book on correct documentation while working vigorously on completing her deadline.

The guy in charge. The mastermind behind the newspaper, Dave Connarroe, takes a break from his busy day.

Publications was a very special class. It was one of the few classes in the school that produced and sold its own product. The newspaper was distributed approximately once every month in the Aspen Times. You could find the newest issue of the newspaper outside classrooms and in the halls. They were in large black bins which were hard to miss. From Field Day and Homecoming to the election and school sports, the newspaper covered it all. This year-long class was incredibly fun! The Publications students were always there to get the latest info on the school's biggest events. From learning to laughing, Publications was truly awesome. The newspaper was supported by local companies such as Boogie's Diner and BJ Adams and Company Real Estate. When students had a mock-election in November, the results were posted in the paper. The results of sports teams were also listed in the newspaper. The Skier Sentinel has had a total of eight volumes as of November 2004.

Junior Kaitlyn Parker said that the Publications class was, "a great way to express myself." Sophomore Skye Weinglass said that this class was, "really interesting. We put a lot of thought and effort into creating the paper." This 8th period class was an exciting way to get to know new people and be up-to-date on current events while having fun.

"We're learning the act of the fourth estate."

- Dave Connarroe

English

Superior teacher. Kathy Klug is sad to be leaving the English Department, but she's excited to become our new college counselor.

Knight in shining armor. Junior James True dresses up for his IB exam presentation with great style.

YOUR teachers. Your spectacular English teachers: Nancy Roach, Cerena Thomsen, Andy Popinchalk, Marybeth Thompson and Caroline Hanson smile enthusiastically.

Projects! A major part of English classes are the projects! Freshman Taylor Crist exhibits hard time and effort in her English scrapbook.

Oedipus. A group of dedicated English students enjoy their field trip to the theatre to see the play Oedipus Rex.

From oral commentaries to guest speakers and theatre trips, there is always something exciting happening in the English Department. The fun, dedicated teachers help us explore the wonders of books and guide us through the art of writing papers. Nancy Roach expresses, "We have the best English staff. We support each other, have tons of laughs, and enjoy what we do as teachers. I truly love coming to work everyday." The English Department always looked to improve their system, whether it be with new books or new courses, such as Senior English to better help seniors prepare for college. Not only are there changes in the program, but with themselves as well. Cerena Thomsen excitedly prepared for a new baby due in May, and Kathy Klug decided to retire from the English Department and become our new college counselor. Klug says, "The English Department at AHS is superior in its approach to differentiated curriculum to advance student learning. It has been a pleasure to co-create this English support and reading program, and I look forward to a continuing career in literary instruction in my new capacity as college counselor."

English is "more better" than any other class!!

- Senior Rita Farrell

Social Studies

Visualize whirled peas. Instead of those stick figures that hold hands around the globe, we convinced Kirk Gregory's 7th period class to hold the globe in a peaceful way.

Commercials. Juniors Joe Oppenheimer, D.J. Furth, and Courtney Smith's shining smiles are enough to convince anyone to read the books they solicit.

History repeats. Matt Wells' 7th period class decides to reenact a battle they just discussed. But what are the crutches for?

Not always fun and games. Juniors Annabelle Berklund and Kate Detweiler are only a few of the people who suffer from work in history class.

Ready for battle. Lance Finkbeiner, Tameira Wilson, Karen Green, Matt Wells, and Kirk Gregory get prepared for class. After all, you never know what's going to happen next.

War, treaties, and expansion are all a part of the great class called History. Some people ask, "Why take history?" The answer is simple: we don't want to make the same mistakes our forefathers did. We also, of course, don't want to be ignorant. These great teachers who brought us the knowledge of the past often use slide shows and occasional reenactments to liven up their classes. Karen Green had great success when one of her classes role-played mock debates of the presidential election, and everyone attending got to participate. Let's get to know a little more about these teachers. Fink likes to be around kids, which is why he became a teacher. He loves Latin America more than any other place on earth because of its beautiful landscape and the great people who live there. Matt Wells thinks that the subject of history is very important, enjoyable, and has great impact on people's lives. He thinks of teaching as his way of 'giving back.' Kirk Gregory, with his quirky sense of humor, likes kids and learning. All of the social studies teachers are zany and creative, so they can relate to their students very well.

"The best thing about history is learning about your past."

Mathematics

Math crunch. Seniors Halley Grundy and Lawrence Poh work hard in the toughest math class at AHS, IB Math Methods II.

The Faculty. Dr. Jean Carey, Jim Morris, Ian Wagner, Kayla Holmbeck, Jamie Hozak, and Susan McKinney.

Smart Man for a "Smart Board." Teacher Jamie Hozak adds technology to his lesson with the use of the "Smart Board" for this geometry demonstration.

Mixed opinions. Sophomore Andy MacCracken shows his love for anything math related, while fellow classmate Julianne Davis shows a bit of frustration for mathematics as she reluctantly adds homework to her Time Tracker.

Note the notes. Sophomore CeCe Carpenter pretends that notes are necessary for math classes, but we all know it doesn't ever help.

The AHS Math Department was an eclectic group of teachers. From doctorates to master's degrees, they were some of the most qualified teachers on the block. The department continued to see change with the addition of Jim Morris, not to be confused with the lead singer of "The Doors." What made this group so dynamic, you ask? It must be their common sentiment that the most enjoyable part of teaching was the joy they got from helping students. According to Mrs. McKinney, she most enjoyed "developing the ideas with the students and seeing their positive reactions when they see the big picture." Susan McKinney finished her five-year stint as department head. She decided to retire after 29 years of teaching in Aspen.

She has enjoyed working with a group of "...really intellectual, innovative, caring, professional teachers." Unfortunately for the students at AHS, this year was the last chance to take a class from the "Bracket Queen" and the master of enlightening students of the wonders of calculus and algebra. She was pound for pound, one of the most respected teachers in the high school. We will all certainly miss her. With the loss of the department head, we will soon see what new directions the mathematics teachers will take. Who will be the new department head? Clearly, someone with a great department to take over and to work with.

"I like the insight into the natural world and discovering relationships between things."

— Ian Wagner

Science

"They like me, they really like me." Travis Moore is ecstatic about the department's first place attendance award.

What the heck? We're not quite sure what Mark Whitley attempts to demonstrate but we know for sure he is holding his student's attention.

Long Live the Queen. With her scepter and molecular crown Dr. Diana Sirko was named the honorary Queen of Science.

They're just gellin'. Karen Jaworski and juniors Connie Luv and Courtney Smith take a moment to admire their gel labs.

The Faculty. Travis Moore, Andre Wille, Karen Jaworski, Lucy, Sara Benson, and Mark Whitley.

What is your Theme Song?

- | | |
|----------------|--------------------------------|
| Karen Jaworski | "Girls Just Wanna Have Fun" |
| Sara Benson | "More Than a Woman" |
| Mark Whitley | "You've Got a Friend" |
| Travis Moore | Theme song from Top Gun |
| Andre Wille | "Dust in the Wind" |

"I can't think of what my favorite tool is because I am too busy day dreaming about Fiji which is my birthdate destination this June."

Karen Jaworski

Change may be good, but the Science Department didn't seem to think so. For the first time in years, this year the Science Department neither lost nor gained any faculty. The Science Department was made up of a group of technologically advanced science geeks. This year they won a First Place award for attendance taking, ranking highest out of the nine departments, but "this was a no brainer because scientists must excel in collecting data," said Karen Jaworski. Probably the most exciting part of the year was when, during Travis Moore's Geology exam, freshman Gretchen Gatzke's knee gave out, and the ski patrol had to come and tobagan her down. While the Science Department may have had their exciting moments, they remained the wild bunch of scientific geniuses they have always been.

Foreign Language

"It's a race! It's a race!" Freshman Austin Hills races his classmates in a Spanish game while preparing for his first final.

Day of the Dead. Junior Matt Boughton displays his creativity by making a colorful skull mobile for the three-day Mexican celebration of ancestry.

Lab laughs! Senior Ian Soroka uses the language lab to have some fun while studying up on some Spanish.

I'm Leaving On A Jet Plane. Unfortunately, French teacher and IB coordinator Kathie Burson is saying her farewells after being with the high school staff for 25 years.

The Faculty. Rixie Cornell, Janis Dybdahl, Kathie Burson, Rossina Allen, and Annissa Houser.

Whether it was in Spanish or French, the Foreign Language Department could be described by one word, proud. The program continued to grow into a new height of success as Rossina Allen exclaimed, "The foreign language department received 100% passing on all the IB exams!" The diverse group of women were always excited for a new or old group of challenging students. With two native speakers, experienced leaders, and a new teacher, the foreign language teachers were constantly enthusiastic about each day of enlightening students.

"French... ooo-la-
la!!!"

-Senior Joe Turner

English as a Second Language

Just checkin'. In the middle of taking a test, freshman Daniel Medrano sneaks a peek to see if anyone else is finished yet.

Friends 'til the end. Freshmen Gabriel Vasquez Munoz and Henry Pineda are not just friends in class, but they are friends out of class too!

Always watching and sometimes listening. Sophomore Lorena Esquivel keeps an eye on the clock while trying to focus on the teacher.

Pick me! Sophomore German Madrano and junior Enigdio Salas "happily" participate in class.

Party with the piñata! The second period class is always willing to include everyone, even the piñata.

English as a Second Language was an energetic class with twenty-three students. This year, the class spent a lot of time interacting with the Spanish II IB class. Earlier in the year, they took a field trip to a restaurant in Basalt for a tasty Mexican dish. The two classes also conducted interviews with each other. After the interviews, the students wrote articles about the student they interviewed. The ESL class wrote the articles in English while the Spanish IB class wrote them in Spanish.

Throughout the year, the class was assigned projects with topics such as the Civil War, and they learned how to make a newspaper, conduct interviews, and plan the school's annual Fiesta. 100 percent of the class also participated on Ski Day making it a fun-filled day. The students went cross-country skiing in the morning and climbed the Bowl in the afternoon. This year the class was full of adventures and excitement (like always).

"I have always loved the language and the humor of the Latino culture."
-Linda Lafferty

Business

Bling bling. Being the photogenic people they are, sophomores Scott Clancy, Zac Giammarusco, and Dylan Rayburn flash their millions to the paparazzi.

Ladies of Wall Street. Sophomores Vasha Kolobakhina and Demetra Kayne flash their gorgeous smiles that will one day take them to the top.

The Faculty. Substitute Tom Fisher, Nancy Haddad and Dave Conarro.

Time out. Senior Steven Meyer, teacher Dave Conarro, junior Peter Durrance, and senior Randy Dube take a break for some quality bonding.

Future politicians. By practicing their political looks for their futures, sophomore Lauren Yust and junior Ry Perry secure their places in the White House.

From Marketing to MS Office, pupils took business classes to better prepare them for the real world. Dave Conarro and Nancy Haddad shed some light on the fact that life is hard work and their classes are just the beginning. Even sophomore Page Cottrell said that taking a business class was "a lot more work than [she] anticipated" while working extremely hard to put on the "intermission events" for her marketing class. DECA is one of the perks of taking a business class that numerous teens were able to experience this year. Eleven Aspenites made it to State competitions.

These business oriented kids who traveled to State finals for DECA were: sophomores Bo Gallagher, Skyler Maclean, Page Cottrell, Taylor Buzbee, Bryan Harper, juniors Justin Faurer, Reuben Sadowsky, Alex Beinstein, and seniors Jake Welsh, Dane Butler, and Geoff Walker. After sharing her knowledge with the next generation's executives for 18 years at AHS and 28 years altogether, Nancy Haddad retired from AHS. Because Haddad was gone for 9 weeks to bring home her new son from Russia, substitute Tom Fisher graciously stepped in and continued teaching.

"Take business because Dave's the teacher."

—Junior Willey Stewart

P.E. and Health

Get your tickets to the gun show.
Freshman Tucker Eason flashes his massive bicep during a stretching session in Coach "K's" Intro to P.E. class.

Take a load off!
It looks like Coach "K" and senior Halli Stefansson have developed a special friendship during their time together in Weight Training.

Elliptical all-stars.
In mid-workout, it seems that senior Georgia Taylor and junior Ali Ziehek are getting the best out of their Weight Training class. After all, they joined the class to "get a good workout."

Ha ha ha.
Health teacher, Shelley Price, smiles knowing all too well the fun, but hard activities she has planned for her class.

One down!
Senior Hunter Barr can't even make it to a chair when rest is desperately needed after his intense work out.

P.E. was a fun and relaxed class where students got to play games that focused on team building and athletics. The most popular game this year was Nausetball, which was brought by a substitute from Maine. Health was also an interesting class with a variety of activities and topics. They ranged from personal successes in life to a lesson on homosexuality at the end of the year when, "students foam at the mouth," said teacher Steve Ketchum. Weight Training, on the other hand, was a serious class for each of the students participating. There was never a set lesson plan, but the students had their own goals for the year. Some were not athletic and participated in the class for strength building purposes only. Others were in it to prepare for sports. Each Monday, a presentation was given by someone in the class on different exercises to do when working out. Some of Ketchum's classes went to The Aspen Club to learn more about health and athletics. There were also guest speakers who came to the classes. One of which was Dr. Bill Concowich, who came first semester to talk to the health class about goals and success in life. Bill Fabrichini, a physical therapist from The Aspen Club, came and talked to the weight training class about different machines to use for certain muscle building.

"We have to lift? I thought this was weight training!"
- Senior Dustin Hite

Art

Picture perfect. Senior Kate Raczak combines her love of art with her passion for gymnastics.

Steady... Corina Person, a junior "IBlet," carefully cuts and pastes "graduate" for her IB sketch book.

Working in the zone. Senior Jordona Loeb works hard on her portfolio to impress art colleges across the country.

Creativity is all it takes. The infamous IB sketch books are often a dread for many students, but in the end, it becomes one of the students' most prized possessions.

Paint to the beat. Senior IB student Ian Soroka listens to his music as his creativity flows across his paper.

The faculty. Marti Cyrus and Barbara Smith.

The art room was the place for students to get their creative juices flowing and to learn a little from the town's art masters. This year's art department overflowed with students; everyone wanted to join some kind of art class. Despite the overpacked classes, the high school's only two art teachers, Barbara Smith and Marti Cyrus, taught aspiring young artists with enthusiasm. Barbara Smith taught some of Aspen's hardest art classes including; senior studio, junior IB, and senior IB. On the other hand, Marti Cyrus' demanding schedule had her juggling both middle school and high school classes. This dynamic duo not only had to endure their crazy schedules, but they also dealt with the fluctuating temperatures in the art rooms and the overwhelming number of students. With the help of these two, Aspen is sure to keep intact with their creative side.

"IB Art is challenging but so rewarding in the end."

— Britta Briscoe

Drama and Music

To be or not to be, that is the question? Brad Moore shows that he is never too old to dramatize life a little bit.

America's Next Top Model? Senior Nadia Beyea poses before performing a Concerto Concert.

As high as a kite. As Junior Fallon Chitty balances on a ladder, she does some handy work on the lights in the black box theater.

Hope. During the AHS Winter Choir concert, the choir sang songs in remembrance of the lost victims in this year's tsunami disaster.

With Ms. Beyea set as the band and orchestra instructor and with Paul Dankers as the new choir teacher, this year's AHS music program was at its all time high. The musical students of our town practiced hard every class to put on amazing shows throughout the year. At every show, the students produced mellifluous music which proved that our students were talented and ready for stardom. Drama, on the other hand, had Brad Moore as their fearless leader, for he taught IB drama as well as high school and middle school drama and had control of the town's district theater. With the addition of IB Drama, Brad Moore had been overwhelmed with the intense IB curriculum. According to his students, they had tea every Monday to relieve the stresses of IB.

"My life is full of drama!"

Student Services

Laughing all the way. Paraprofessional Joy Christian and senior Max Grange laugh while having fun at lunch.

Dancing the night away. Senior Sydney Prikryl and junior Win Charles dance and have a great time at the Homecoming Dance.

All smiles. Paraprofessional Andrea Ames and junior Bill Bernard smile for the camera while fueling their bodies for the final stretch of the day.

The Faculty. Joy Christian, Debbie Overeynder, Linda Lafferty, Skye Solheim, Tom Mensch, Andrea Ames, and Bruce Johnson.

Having fun with clay. Paraprofessional Tom Mensch and freshman Lauren Jackson having fun with clay in ceramics.

This year the teachers of Student Services helped the kids learn while having fun. The whole group was a superstar team. Tom Mensch's favorite part of the job was inspiring youth to be their best. Kathy Klug's most memorable moment of the year was when her Outreach Club students made holiday baskets for the poor. Debbie Overeynder's most memorable moment of the school year was participating in Ex-Ed because it was a relaxed, fun, and creative environment. What Bruce Johnson liked about the job was working with students and staff and helping others to see and reach their potential. Skye Solheim's favorite part of the job was making a difference in students' scholastic lives. Connie Waldron's most memorable moment of the school year was discovering that a student named a stuffed animal after her. "What I learned from the kids is much more than what I taught them" - Joy Christian.

"Seeing pride and confidence grow in students as they learn, accomplish, and achieve."

-Bruce Johnson

News Flash!

Academics Can be Fun!

Lunchin wit Mr. P

Mr. Popinchalk can always be found in the teachers' lounge during lunchtime; he calls it his "private moment."

Cookie Chemistry

Doesn't get much better than making cookies in science class. As informative as it is, junior Jessie Musaeus hopes she still gets to eat them in the end.

Til the Fat Lady Sings

While on the theater trip to see Oedipus Rex, juniors Joe Chesla, Charles Plucker, and Mike Schuster take time to admire the theater's "Woman."

Crazy in Counseling

Junior Corie Thompson has a momentary lapse in sanity while sitting in the counseling center.

Supercalafragalistic expealidocious

MS Office is so fun that freshman Sarah Nining can barely contain her excitement.

Activities/Clubs

How to get to Activities Highway

The residents of Aspen High participated in many extra-curricular activities this year including various clubs like Outreach, Heroes, Model UN, History, Art, Guitar, Book, Knitting, Sports and Medicine, Literary Magazine, Epycs, Kayak, Hospital Volunteer, Cooking, Student Senate, Film, 3-D Animation, and even Yoga Club. Students could dabble in different interest areas that they usually wouldn't have had a chance to explore. Besides the clubs that were available, students also took part in activities such as ballet, figure skating, snowboarding, hockey, horseback riding, and gymnastics. Joining in these activities, students reached out and experienced sports that weren't offered with the school. Students both competed and performed with these sports and dedicated time and effort to all of their activities.

Stamp my hand! Looking good in shades, teachers Nancy Roach and Sarah Benson check kids in for a great day on the slopes. Student Senate runs Ski Day, as well as many other events throughout the year.

One Skiing. Senior Joe Turner relaxes before taking a run on Ski Day, which was put on by Student Senate. Skiing is always better than going to school!

Pit stop. Taking a water break before getting on the ice, seniors Lauren Johns and Teagan Walter get ready to take some hits and shoot some pucks.

Beautiful ballerinas. Spending some practice time at the bar, sophomore Robyn Gerbaz, freshmen Jessica Hite, Stephanie Purnell, Shannon Dick, and sophomore Hannah Gilmore demonstrate how lovely ballerinas are.

I'm listening. Seniors Lawrence Poe and Wes Graham participate in Heroes club while they learn about the effects of drugs and alcohol.

What did you say? Junior Kelly Mitchell tries to pay attention during an Outreach meeting, but since the club meets during lunch, she found it hard to pay attention and eat at the same time. Can you blame her?

The pool will do for now.

Kayak Clubians practice in the ARC pool to get ready for their adventures on the river. The members learn how to roll, cartwheel, and speed through the water before they enter the real white water.

Fresh tracks!

Taking a break after some intense telemarking, seniors Maggie Hoffman, Jackie Welgos, and Lauren Wenzel rest their legs before getting back on the slopes.

How much money do you need?

Senior Rita Farrell and junior Connie Luu review an Epyes grant to determine whether it's a worthy cause to invest the club's money in.

Fever?

Sophomore Caitlyn Carlson works around the clock as part of Hospital Volunteer Club to care for her patient freshmen Sarah Niningger.

Persuasion.

Don't let freshman Annie Buettow's looks fool you. She may look sweet now but watch out when she starts using her political debate skills!

Spreading holiday cheer.

Every year in December, the Outreach Club spends a day wrapping gifts for the underprivileged families in our valley.

When is Outreach?

If students are ever confused about when Outreach Club meets, Kathy Klug posts the meeting times outside her room every week, so students never have to worry!

CLUBS

Tick-tock. Despite students' busy schedules, some find time to meet with their clubs after school.

Spreading the word. The Outreach Service members spend a Sunday afternoon with Chris Klug to inform the public about Organ Donation.

Behind the scenes. Freshman Jennie McLellan gets advice from the real nurses at the hospital, hoping that one day she will be just like them.

Work those muscles! Kayak Club members look towards the finish line as they speed across the pool.

Don't hug a tree; hug a book! Librarian Lauren Cassatt not only takes charge in the library but also mentors AHS's Book Club.

Take your pick!
AHS offers a variety of clubs each year so that students can participate in their areas of interest and broaden their horizons.

Save the earth.
As group leader Marc Whitley leads a discussion about ways high school students can protect our planet, sophomore Sophie Ben-Hamou is thrilled that she is contributing to the school's recycling program run by the EARTH group.

Readaholics.

Freshman Jenny McCaslin, club leader Lauren Cassatt, senior Maddy D'Amato, and club leader Geraldine Graham pick their favorite book and express what they like about them in Book Club.

The people that make it happen.

Junior Jamie Bernard, sophomore Nate Marrs, junior Nathan Work, and club manager Ian Wagner get ready to make a marvelous production in 3-D Animation Club.

NO, I play the drums!

Sophomores Andy MacCracken and Brian Harper gather around Peter Popinchalk, a non-guitar member, as they try to convince him to join Guitar Club.

Booster Shot.

Freshmen Janie Gosney and Meagan Jonsson get ready to give the school their spirit shot with help from the rest of the Booster Club.

3-D fun.

Freshman Josh Ives shows his enthusiasm when asked about his club; he enjoys thinking and talking about his club more than anything!

Eye contact.

Sophomore Claire Wescott focuses on her project to make sure it turns into beautiful art during Art Club.

Use your imagination.

CLUBS

Sideways.
Sophomore Kelly Garrett turns her head sideways to make sure that her whole project is perfect and can actually be called art.

Work it out.
Juniors Ellery Kendrick and Corina Person work on puzzling art projects for Art Club.

Foreigners.
Junior Brittany Fortier and freshman Teo Ersamer meet from different clubs to discuss their interests.

Finishing touches.
Sophomore Joel Parada puts the final touches of paint on his clay pot; this will make his long dedicated art project finished.

Writing trip.
Mentor of the Aspen Writers Foundation Jeanne McGovern, seniors Tyler Baker, Maria Plessis, Sydney Prykriil, Teige Muhlfeid, and Kelsi Coia visit Independence Press at the APC to make plans for this year's Lit. Mag.

Yoga lunch.
Junior Amanda Schochet and freshman Charles Sailor have a light lunch to be fit for Yoga Club.

Patience is a virtue.
Sophomore Jamie Lamberti tries to contain his excitement while he waits for the computers to be "unleashed" in 3-D Animation Club.

STUDENT SENATE

After being chosen by their classmates to represent their grade, the students in Student Senate worked hard throughout the year planning events from Homecoming to Ski Day. Without their hardwork and dedication to making the school year amazing, some of Aspen High's unique events wouldn't be possible.

Multi tasker. In addition to teaching biology classes, Sarah Benson runs Student Senate from week to week and makes sure that the members of the club stay on track.

Kulin' the school! Seniors Tyler Baker and Maddy D'Amato may seem laid back, but they work hard as head boy and head girl to lead school assemblies and pep rallies with their enthusiastic personalities.

"Guest speaker." After returning from a leadership trip to Washington D.C., senior Wes Graham talked to the Heroes class about what he did and what he learned about being a leader.

Heroes was a credited class that met once a week on Fridays. Each week the class learned about drugs and alcohol awareness. As well as knowing what these drugs do to your body, they also learned leadership development. This was Randy Youngling's second year teaching the class, and as senior Amanda Christian described, "Randy is crazy!" At the beginning of the year Randy handed out a drug and alcohol code of conduct, which he hoped everyone would sign.

"You're my hero, baby!" Senior Amanda Christian and junior Kaitlin Leibowitz make Heroes their top priority class so that they can learn how to be role models for the rest of the school.

Snowboarding

Ripping up the slopes

Nap Time. AVSC snowboarders and juniors at AHS, Matt Boughton, Woody Boughton, and Ben Hendrix take a break after a rough day on the mountain.

Big Air. Sophomore Jordan Karlinski jumps high into the air, putting everybody that is watching in shock.

Dominating at both school and sports, the AVSC snowboard members did tricks that the rest of us could only dream of. These dedicated snowboarders used their free periods to practice their jumps and getting faster. Sophomore Jordan Karlinski competed in the 2005 Winter X-Games! You go girl!

Highway 126

Multi-talented. Junior Breton Lujan shows that not only can he snowboard, but he can cook too!

Talented. Sophomore Jordan Karlinski proves that she has the skills to pull off tricks that, for most of us, would take a lifetime to learn.

Overachievers. Sophomores Kyla Sobieralski, Jordan Karlinski, Loren Lujan, and J.R. Galardi beam because they know they excel at both snowboarding and school.

FREESTYLE

"Can't stop. Addicted to you, drop down and get your eagle on, girl. RIPSET! Ft. Team Ramrod."
Senior Jon Lafferty

Senior Andrew Cote-Pwyer

"Freestyle truly is the best. I should know...I've done them all."
Senior Kristin Walla

Freestyle skiers proved again how to combine air and moguls into a pot full of fun. Junior Rachel Weitzenkorn showed vast improvements with breakthrough performances in moguls, consistently finishing in the top ten. Junior Kaitlin Roos, and sophomores Julianne Davis and Lexi Paparo followed close behind. Junior Glenn Engelman continued to lead the male mogul skiers of the AVSC team, finishing ninth or better 12 times including one podium finish in the Aspen Valley Freestyle Duals event. Senior Jon Lafferty led the Pipe and Park Team in their second year. Jon won several USSA events, and he also captured a tenth place finish in a worldwide field at the Gravity Games in Copper. Lafferty finished his undefeated aerial run with the win at Divisionals before heading to Junior Olympics in March. Freshman Charlie Lasser, sophomore Sam Ferguson, and junior Matt Walker followed closely in points.

Sophomores Julianne Davis and Lexi Paparo, juniors Kaitlin Roos and Rachel Weitzenkorn, sophomores Sam Ferguson, Zach Giammarrusco

BALLET, SKATING, GYMNASTICS

Ballet.

The young group of ballerinas appeared in many of the successful performances throughout the year. Sophomores Robyn Gerbaz and Hannah Gilmore, freshmen Shannon Dick, Stephanie Purnell, and Jessica Hite danced every day to prepare for their wonderful performances.

Skating.

The skating team only consisted of three girls, but that never stopped them from becoming champions. Sophomore Sara Faurer, freshmen Kaitlyn Hooper, and freshman Shannon Dick had a strong season finishing with first places in each of their events.

Gymnastics.

Despite having a small team, the Aspen gymnasts had a tremendous season picking up top finishes in every event. The team took hard hits when senior Kate Raczak and sophomore Megan Raczak were unable to compete, but freshman Haley Hoffman and sophomore Kyia Sobrialski led the team to many victories.

Sophomore Hannah Gilmore patiently poses in fourth position.

"Don't think, just go!"

CLUB HOCKEY AND RIDING

Pictured:
Sophomore Haley Ortmann, senior Reilly Gallagher, senior Caitlin Dunn, senior Teagan Walter, and freshman Whitney Wickes.

Down and ready.
Senior Maddy D'Amato waits while anticipating when the referee will drop the puck.

Even though horseback riding and girls' club hockey were not school sports, many of the girls thought that all their hard work should pay off. These out-of-school sports were two of the few that are fortunate enough to get club letters for all their work throughout the season.

Take the shot!
Junior Katrina DeVore glides up to take the puck all the way to a wide open net.

Taking the "high" way. Sophomore Isabelle Delise rock climbs for fun high above the ground.

Beauty from Germany. Sophomore Maike Frank expresses how much she enjoys the skiing, mountains, and people of Aspen.

Foreign Exchange and Miscellaneous Sports

Coming from all over the world, the foreign exchange students gave Aspen a taste of other cultures outside of this town. This year a few locals also gave us a taste of something new...Miscellaneous sports, such as rock climbing, gave the ordinary sports, like football, an experience of other activities out there.

Group hug. The Argentine sophomores Matias Frias, Sol Tomas, Manuela Duhagon, and Romina Benzl always stick together in this snowy town.

A french kiss. Senior Stephanie Chaillou gives this sleepy little town something to look at.

"Ice Ice Baby." With his fancy get-up, senior Halli "Ice" Stefansson shows he can look sharp no matter where he is.

Retiring Faculty

Kathie Burson

Number of years at AHS: 25

Positions held: IB coordinator, French teacher, track coach, assistant cross-country coach, cheerleader sponsor

Favorite AHS memory: "I think I would have to say the year that George retired and our son, David, surprised him at graduation by establishing a scholarship in George's name. The look on George's face!"

Plans for the future: Spending more time with her family

Susan McKinney

Number of years at AHS: 29

Positions held: Math teacher, flutist in the high school musical orchestra

Favorite AHS memory: "I don't really have one singular memory. What sticks out in my memory are the students I've worked with, things in class that have made us laugh, and watching students' accomplishments after they leave us."

Plans for the future: "Well, I'll still be in the valley. I want to get outdoors more, volunteer in school, and probably become a tutor in math."

We'll miss you

Nancy Haddad

Number of years at AHS: 19

Positions held: Freshman volleyball coach, DECA and FBLA, yearbook advisor, and computer/business teacher.

Favorite AHS memory: "The Ex-Ed trips that I have taken."

Plans for the future: "I plan to move my family closer to my extended family in Pennsylvania. I hope to teach again when my children are a bit older."

Patty Goodson

Number of years at AHS: 10

Positions held: Technology Coordinator

What her colleagues say about her: "Patty Goodson was the first technology coordinator for the Aspen School District. She came on board just as the district was preparing to go to the polls to pass a technology bond. Currently the district is networked and has Smart Boards. Patty was a one person department and that has grown to a department of four. She has worked hard to bring the Aspen School District into the 21st century, and she surely will be missed."

Patty Jones will also be retiring this year.

Top ten ways you know you're an upperclassman:

10. You're actually counting down the days until you graduate.

9. You're on a first name basis with all the teachers and administrators.

8. You've taken your last CSAP ever!

7. Everybody's hormones have calmed down a little, and you can all actually begin acting like rational human beings.

6. You suddenly realize that you have no idea who any of the freshmen are.

5. You aren't afraid of the older students any more because there aren't any.

4. You can't remember the last time you actually had to get a late slip from the office.

3. Sometimes you don't do homework assignments just because you don't feel like doing them.

2. You get daily mailings from colleges trying to convince you to come to their school.

1. You decide the boys in your class aren't so dumb after all but it's TOO LATE because they're dating the freshmen girls.

Top ten ways you know you're an underclassman:

10. Everyone else seems REALLY BIG.

9. You see teachers you've never seen before on a daily basis.

8. Graduation and college seem a really long way off.

7. The girls in your class haven't realized yet that there is more to life than being cute and flirty.

6. The boys in your class, for no obvious reason, take considerable pleasure in taking their friends and shoving them into innocent passerbys in the hallways.

5. You still don't know who all of the kids in your class are.

4. You're taking Keyboarding.

3. You get yelled at for trying to sit on the Mezzanine.

2. You've gotten lost trying to find your class at least once.

1. Your only hope of getting to go to prom is if a junior or senior asks you.

Traffic Jams

Friends + homework + teachers + food = late

Smile and run. After giving a quick smile, juniors R.J. Jensen and Kai Ersperer dash off to be just in time for class.

Catching up on gossip. Sophomores Kelly Garrett, Katie Holland, Sabrina Robinson, Patrick Selby, and Joel Parada catch up on what happened last weekend during lunch.

Freshman Alex King
"Tutorial riveting, majestically unique, outrageously mind boggling, a complete masterpiece."

Sophomore Stefan Navarrete
"Rock on people!"—to those who block the halls.

Junior Britta Briscoe
"You make me wanna lala"

Senior Randy Dube
"Listening to the rumors, and finding out who got [in trouble] is what tutorial is all about"

Goofing off. Freshmen Matt Terral and Sam Coffey fool around while waiting for the clock to turn to ten o'clock.

Up in here. The coolest kids to hit the halls, senior Hunter Baar, sophomore Max Weaver, freshman Elli Rinaldi, junior Corie Thompson, senior Halli Stefansson, sophomore Rory Suma, junior Ben Beattie, and senior Tommy Malone show that they know how to get the party started.

Right back at ya. Hanging out in the hallway, seniors Will Moore and Jon Cavaleri show that they're too cool to be in class.

Lean on me. Unintentionally, sophomores Amanda Goch, Demetra Kayne, and Shirley Moore block the way to the cafeteria with ecstatic looks of joy.

What do you do in between classes and during tutorial?

Chat with friends	45%
Finish homework (due next class)	31%
Use the bathroom	3%

Cribs

Crazed With Style

The cribs of the little Town of Aspen High were astonishingly decked out this year. From pictures and dry erase boards to fluffy pink boas and stickers, the locals really went all out by having the latest fad demonstrated in their homes. Two freshmen locals, Nic Maraziti and Blake Wilcox-Snyder, found that they were spending so much time in their cribs that they decided to sleep there. The cribs were jam-packed with their owners' personalities and interests, which were apparent to anyone walking down the street during the school year.

Lunch Duty..

Who hasn't had it?

The list is posted...

The infamous lunch duty list can be found posted anywhere throughout the school. So make sure you look at it and know for a fact that your name isn't on it.

Here, I will help fill your trash bag.
Freshman Taylor Preusch helps fellow freshman Wiley Maple in filling his trash bag enough for Charlie's approval.

Anyone have any trash?
Sophomore Dasha Kolobakhina goes around the cafeteria asking her friends if they will wait and give their trash only to her.

I hope I'm not on Charlie's list....
Charlie Anastas cheerfully informs sophomore Max Weaver and junior Jyace Stutsman that they are off the hook until they are late for class.

"I do it a lot."~ Senior Hunter Barr

"For some strange reason I'm able to talk my way of it."~ Anonymous sophomore

"Run!!! It's Charlie"
~ Senior Dustin Hite

"It's hard making sure that all the kids have enough trash in their bags, but it is very helpful and keeps the school clean."~ Charlie Anastas

People...People...People!!! The rules have changed. Last year you were allowed to have three tardies in one class within a week. This year you were only allowed to have three tardies in all of your classes, within a week. "It's not my fault that people made me late to class," explained sophomore Kelly Williams. All students need to be aware of the new rules.

I'll take that for you.
Senior David Porter graciously takes trash from a table of juniors that are willing enough to help out with the loading up of his bag.

SKI DAY

Hot Buns! Geraldine Graham prepares hamburgers for the hungry students.

One-piece! Sophomore Haylen Gregory, Juniors Brittney Britt and Elise Fornell have a keen eye for ski gear fashions.

Dog pile! Sophomores Bo Gallagher, Eric Sciarrone, and Dillon Morehead find themselves stuck in a snow bank with no where to go.

Tips up! Freshmen Morgan Boyles, Sam Coffee, Wiley Maple, and Taylor Preusch are prepared for a fun-filled day of skiing.

Ski day was for a good cause this year, having all of the proceeds go to Stefan Zedlacher and his family. Many students, families, and other locals turned out to support him. Even though it was a close call, student participation made ski day an amazing success. Student Senate put on a tasty barbeque after kids skied all day at Highlands.

FACE JUMBLES

How closely do you look at your peers? Can you tell who belongs to these face jumbles?

Check your answers!

The Unforgettable Moments of 2005!

"Ski Day!!!"
-Freshman Sam Coffee

"The killer beavers on Ex-Ed..."
-Junior Noga Vardy

"My 18th birthday!"
-Senior Nicole Rodriguez

"When Matt fell after I told him about pushy penguins."
-Junior Jyace Stutsman

"When Rory and Mike put me in the big lost and found box."
-Sophomore Kelly Williams

"When Lauren played the national anthem on her guitar at the varsity volleyball game."
-Senior Maggie Hoffman

"When I fell down the stairs!"
-Sophomore Page Cottrell

"Homecoming..."
-Junior Carly Sewell

"The whole caboodle!"
-Freshman Haley Hoffman

"Playing games with the SV crew!"
-Junior Wylie Melberg

Not quoted but pictured: Robert Oppenheimer, J.R. Galardi, and Andrew Cote.

"Ex-ed!"
-Freshman Janie Gosney

"Launching water balloons
the night before field day!"
-Senior Brock Strasbourger

"January 12...?"
-Sophomore Haley
Ortmann

"Being declodded by a tree."
-Senior Georgia
Taylor

Valentine's Day

Senior Geoff Walker

Give one... get one. Showing off their school-spirit, sophomores Muckie Erickson and Courtney Dunn buy and receive a special Valentine's Day treat.

"Stupid cupid, stop picking on me!" Our very own junior Mary Daniel plays Cupid for the little Town of Aspen High for all the singles out there.

Aww! Freshman Blake Wilcox-Snyder shows off his sensitive side by not only receiving a valentine but giving one as well.

For me? Freshmen Caitlin McCaslin and Steffi Klawiter share a rose in honor of their friendship.

"Some say Valentine's Day is for love, others say it's a holiday created by Hallmark and Hershey's."

-Haley Kaufman

Valentine's Day was an incredibly special holiday in the little Town of Aspen High. People came together and showed how much they appreciated one another by sending their loved ones Daisy-grams. The weekend before, there was a Valentine's Day dance located in the Blackbox theater. It was organized by the band/orchestra as a fund-raiser for their trip to Australia. From chocolates and candy hearts, to roses and Daisy-grams, gifts were given and received throughout the town. It was hard to find a frowning face with all the love in the air.

WHAT'S UP DOC? Cabe Orisolia and Jason Strauss find it hilarious to be labled "beginners" on class classiness.

Margaret "Babe" Paas

Squint pretty. During lunch on Ski Day, Margaret Paas proves her class by enjoying her burger and catching some rays.

NOTHIN' BUT TROUBLE! Rough riders Steven Meyer, Will Moore, Max Redmond, Daniel Rave, and Cole Cathcart take a pit stop for lunch knowing that their presence proves their class.

The CLASSiest

PIMPIN'. Chick magnet, Tyler Baker, always makes a little time for his sweeties, Jackie Welgos, Reilly Gallagher, and Caitlin Dunn.

MASTERS OF DISGUISE. If you want to be classy, pucker up and stick out your tongue like Maria Plessis, Andrew Preusch, and Spenceer Adams.

MOUNTAIN BEACH BABE. Basking in the sun, Stephanie Challou heats up the outdoors with her class.

Showin' some skin. Joe Turner gives the girls a peep show on what every man who wants to have class should look like!

Joe "Sexy" Turner

FUN OUT OF THE SUN. Amanda Christian, Jessica Vazquez, Tristan Mahaffey, and Wes Graham establish that eating outside isn't always classy.

"Our class of 2005 is a presentable, intelligent, beautiful, amusing, amazing, wonderful, and CLASSY class!"

-The Senior Class

SKI BUNNIES. After a couple morning runs, Teagan Walter, Elyssa Egerly, Kristin Walla, Gigi Podolak, Muggle Hoffman, and Sydney Cantrell rest and "tan" in their full body ski suits.

Down and Classy. Kelsi Coia has no problem posing on the floor to prove that class has no limits!

Kelsi "Rarr" Coia

Livestrong Bracelets

Pictured: Sophomore Joel Parada, junior Corina Person's arm, senior Andrew Preusch, freshman Janie Gosney, sophomore Sara Faurer, juniors Brittany Fortier and Brooke Sheffer.

During the past summer, Lance Armstrong and his organization sold "Livestrong" bracelets as a fundraiser for cancer research. These hip bracelets took off in popularity for both men and women and were sold for the Southeast Asian Tsunami Relief, Breast Cancer, Organ Donors, and other charitable causes. Bracelets were found all over the school during the year.

SEUSSICAL:

A one feather tail. Senior Veronica Hunsinger-Loe plays Gertrude McFuzz: a sweet but neurotic bird with tail-envy.

Horton Hears a Who? Senior Tyler Baker plays an elephant who finds friendship and love while trying to protect Whoville, a clover, and an egg.

"We're Whos here." Junior Sean Warnecke and senior Kristin Walla are Mr. and Mrs. Mayor of Whoville.

Chicks. Sophomore Cynthia Whitman and senior Amanda Christian play the fun-loving bird girls.

"'Twas the Sour Kangaroo." Senior Teige Muhlfeld plays this misguided but well-meaning kangaroo.

"I was down in Palm Beach." Senior Sophie Morton is vain, frivolous, and gorgeous as Mayzie LaBird.

"I scare children out of their wits!" Senior Brett Payne plays General Ghen-gis Khan Schmitz who is crazy for war.

THE MUSICAL

"Oh the Thinks you can think." Senior Naomi Jones plays JoJo, a young girl with an overactive imagination. Senior Spencer Adams plays The Cat in the Hat who orchestrates the show while causing mischief all along the way.

A black-bottomed eagle. Senior Max Grange wreaks havoc as Vlad Vladikoff, a mischevious bird.

"When you think about Seuss!" Math teacher, Susan McKinney, shows off her hidden talent as a flutist in the orchestra of the musical.

"Egg, nest, and tree." Senior Andrew Preusch, the lighting designer for the show, takes a break on Horton's egg.

How to spend your money in one day...

Start at Paradise corner and collect a chocolate chip cookie for the long journey ahead. Turn left and head down to the Cos Bar and get your glamorous make-over. Now that you are beautified, continue on to Cooper street and look to your left where you will see Boogies. Go upstairs, grab a milkshake, and grab some trendy clothes on the way out. Now that you are lookin' hot, turn right and walk for half a block to The Big Wrap. Get a Pesto in a Bowl and you'll be set to go. Venture down to Short Sport and pick up a toy for your A.D.D. self. After going into Short Sport realize that you need a new fragrance, and rush over to Sashae to buy your new scent. You are pampered, so you are ready to buy a house. Make your way down to Mason and Morse, pick a house on Red Mountain for 25 million dollars and think it is a good deal. Finally, you have completed your journey to becoming a true Aspen spender.

How to leave town...

Now that your journey is coming to an end, take your last stops before hitting Highway 82. First, take a friend and bike up to Maroon Bells and on your way down enjoy the spring breeze before the April showers. After speeding down Castle Creed road, slow down as you approach the Moore Field and do a little cheer for your girls' soccer team. But before hitting the town, take a swing at the boys' baseball game and take a lap with the track and field team. After watching these exhilarating games, turn it down a notch and enjoy the fine arts displayed at the Aspen Chapel. After shopping around at the show and even possibly picking up some priceless pieces, stop by the Commons for some flavorful foods from around the world. Once you arrive at the Taste of the World, be prepared to try spices from China, tortillas from Mexico, and some pasta from Italy. For better digestion, hit an ace with the girls' tennis team at the Maroon Creek Club. If that doesn't do the trick, swing a club at the golf course with the girls' golf team. Clean up, put your dancing shoes on, and head to prom at the St. Regis Ballroom. But that's not all. Seniors, take an adventure with you class, then put on your cap and gown and head to the Music Tent for your final HURRAH! The rest of the town gathers and watches their peers head down University Street. The remaining citizens welcome a new class as they all come one year closer to their final year.

Slot! While playing Central High School, sophomore Taylor Buzbee calls for a through ball from her teammate.

Supper's up. Teacher Matt Wells anxiously awaits his taste of Saudi Arabia served by freshman Joey Cathcart.

Let it flow! Senior Hardy Anderson joins in on the St. Mary's Blood Drive and helps save three people's lives.
